SAA and the Library are exploring a new initiative to transform the Parnassus Library into an “Academic Commons.” This newly designed space will enable us to enhance teaching, learning, and scholarship through increased use of technology, consolidated classrooms, and related services. We would appreciate your input on the following questions.

How does the library space support your work today? How do you see this changing in 5 years?

What do you currently use the TLC for?

What other community functions should we consider?

What’s missing from this representation?
